JUDGE: Honorable Vaughn R. Walker

SENTENCING MEMORANDUM OF THE UNITED STATES

I. INTRODUCTION

On May 8, 2008, pursuant to an Agreement between the parties, the Defendant, BERNARD WARD, entered a plea of guilty to count 1 (Distribution of Child Pornography) of the above captioned Indictment charging him with the felony offenses of Distributing and Receiving Child Pornography, in violation of 18 U.S.C. §§ 2252A(a)(2). The United States submits this Memorandum in anticipation of sentencing, which is scheduled for August 28, at 10:30 a.m.

Because defendant knowingly distributed images of child pornography; because many of these images depict very young children (3-year-olds) being subjected to abuse of the most serious kind (sadistic and masochistic abuse); because defendant, by his own admission, engaged in this conduct for approximately one year; and because no evidence supports defendant's contention that he engaged in his behavior to further a journalistic investigation, the government respectfully requests that this Court sentence defendant to a term of 108 months of imprisonment, the low-end of the applicable guidelines.

II. OUTSTANDING OBJECTIONS

The United States notes the outstanding objections of the defense and denials of certain factual statements on three general issues. See PSR Addendum ¶¶ 1-5. Although the United States is prepared to prove the first of these contested issues, it does not believe that the Court needs an evidentiary hearing to resolve these objections.

With respect to the first issue, the defendant contests the inclusion of the content of PSR paragraph 7. While the events recounted therein may not have actually taken place, they do, at a minimum, represent the context in which defendant distributed child pornography. It is undisputed that the statements were in fact made by defendant. Because defendant now claims that he engaged in his unlawful activities to conduct journalistic research, it is highly relevant and proper that the Court consider these Instant Messages. As such, they are attached to this memorandum in Attachment 1.¹

With respect to the second issue, the United States did not participate in the investigation that yielded the information regarding defendant's purported sexual misconduct 20 years ago and therefore is not in a position to offer evidence to support the PSR findings. However, the United ¹ As this court is aware, hearsay testimony is permissible at sentencing hearing. United States v. Littlejohn, 444 F.3d 1196, 1200 (9th Cir. 2006).

1 States echoes the PSR in stating that the Court can give the facts whatever weight and relevance
2 it deems appropriate under 18 U.S.C. §3553(a).

3 Finally, regarding the third defense objection, the 2 level enhancement for use of a computer
4 found in U.S.S.G. §2G2.2(b)(6) is appropriate in this case as uncontested facts demonstrate 5 defendant distributed and received child pornography via a computer. Defendant can cite to no
6 case law or sentencing commission language that supports his position that because his offense
7 intrinsically involved a computer, an enhancement is inappropriate. There are many other 8 circumstances in which an individual can distribute and receive child pornography other than by 9 computer.

10 II. STATEMENT OF FACTS

11 The facts of this case are simple, yet disturbing. Defendant is a 57-year-old man who is 12 married and has four children (approximate ages 15 to 23). Ward lives in San Francisco,
13 California and formerly worked as a radio "shock" talk show host for a local radio station, KGO-14 AM 810, in San Francisco. Defendant also worked as a radio journalist for the same station.
15 (PSR ¶57).

16 In late December 2004, defendant, using the AOL Instant Messenger screen name Vincentlio, 17 chatted with a woman via AOL in Oakdale, California who used the screen name SexFairy2005.
18 During one of these chat sessions, defendant sent a photo to Sexfairy2005 containing a depiction 19 of two minors and an adult woman sitting on a couch engaged in sexually explicit conduct.
20 The adult female is seen guiding the minor female's hand onto the minor male's erect penis as 21 the three sit on the couch nude. Defendant described the photo as containing a boy age 14, a girl 22 age 12, and a mom age late 30s. Prior to sending the photo, defendant stated that "he loved 23 trading pictures." This photo has been identified as part of the "Sabaan" series of photos that 24 were taken in Brazil in the mid-1990s. The female in the image is known as "Sabaan" who was 25 approximately 12-14 when the photos were taken. (PSR ¶6)

26 During these chats, defendant also discussed various sexual scenarios involving his children 27 where he was sexually aroused either by his daughter and her friend walking in on him in the 28 bathroom while he was in the shower, or where he was watching Japanese Hentai cartoons

1 (sexual cartoons) with his son and one of his friends. (PSR ¶7, Attachment 1).

2 Following these chat sessions, Sexfairy2005 reported defendant's activities to the police and 3 identified herself. She allowed Oakdale police to obtain copies of her chat sessions with 4 Vincentlio and provided a statement. In her reporting, she told police that Vincentlio was 5 introduced to her as an ex-priest. (PSR ¶8) Relying on the chat sessions provided by 6 Sexfairy2005 and the image of child pornography she printed that Vincentlio had sent to her,
7 Oakdale police obtained a search warrant for the AOL account with screen name Vincentlio.
8 AOL responded to this warrant by providing Oakdale police the subscriber information for the 9 Vincentlio account, the connection log information, and the emails for the account from 10 approximately December 30th, 2004 through January 13th, 2005. All of the information AOL
11 provided to Oakdale police was located on its company servers located in Virginia. AOL was 12 only able to provide the window of time between those dates because it does not retain data for 13 individual email accounts for very long, unless an individual saves emails to their personal filing
14 cabinet. (PSR ¶9)

15 In the stored email account information during this time were approximately 100 imbedded 16 images within the body of the email (not attachments that needed to be opened) of minors under 17 the age of 18 engaged in sexually explicit conduct. These images were located in both the "read"
18 and "sent" folders (approximately 50 in each). Most of the images depicted prepubescent 19 females engaged in sexual acts with adult males. None of the sexually explicit images were in 20 the "unread" folder of Vincentlio's stored emails. Thus, defendant actually accessed the email 21 account and actually opened the emails in the "read" folder. (PSR ¶10).

22 Defendant belonged to a list group of individuals who would trade images of child
23 pornography with one another. (PSR ¶10) These emails typically would have no accompanying 24 text and would just contain an image. A member would send an image to the group, who would 25 then pair off and begin exchanging images individually. Occasionally, defendant would make 26 specific requests for types of images, (e.g. "Young or Family") when prompted by another list
27 member to "send what you like." Defendant distributed at least one image of child pornography 28 to approximately 10 different members of these list groups. (PSR ¶10).

1 The images defendant received and sent included numerous images depicting very young
2 prepubescent minors (3-9 years old), typically females, engaged in sexual acts, graphically
3 depicted, with adult males. The sexual acts included vaginal and anal intercourse, as well as oral 4 sex. In some images, the minors are depicted bound by rope or handcuffs and are either being 5 forced to perform fellatio on an adult male or are being digitally penetrated. In one image, a 6 minor approximately 9 years old is being whipped. (PSR ¶10).

7 These images were sent to the National Center for Missing and Exploited Children
8 (NCMEC), which identified approximately 12 known victims, with some appearing in the “read”
9 folder and some in the “sent” folder. (PSR ¶11).

10 The FBI obtained a federal search warrant for defendant’s residence. They also spoke with 11 defendant, his wife, and two of his children. Forensic analysis of the computers revealed no 12 matches to the images that AOL supplied through its warrant. Further, no evidence of chats were 13 retrieved from the computer evidence. One of the drives did contain a few erotic stories that 14 discussed incest and child sex, as well as some indication that “lolita” sites had been visited by a 15 user of the computer. (PSR ¶13)

16 On April 7, 2005, defendant made a statement to an old friend regarding his involvement
17 with child pornography. This individual contacted the FBI and stated he had information that 18 was relevant to its investigation. He indicated he had known defendant for approximately 20 19 years. On April 3, 2005, he relayed that when he saw defendant, he gave him a hug and when he 20 did, defendant burst into tears. After asking defendant what was wrong, defendant stated to him, 21 “I’ve been looking at things I’m not supposed to on the Internet.” He then clarified that he had 22 been looking at pictures of children. Upon hearing this, the friend asked how long defendant had 23 been involved in child pornography to which defendant responded that he had been looking for 24 pornographic images of children for one year. Defendant further told the friend that the FBI had 25 searched his home and he believed he had been “caught” because he was role playing with 26 someone. (PSR ¶14).

27 The probation officer reviewed 17 of the images defendant either sent or received via his 28 AOL email account. According to her, the photos involved primarily female minors including:

1) a female toddler posing next to a penis, 2) an image of a penis penetrating a young female's vagina, 3) a series of six images showing a girl copulating an adult male, 4) a young girl tied up with her mouth taped and her legs spread apart displaying her vagina, and 5) a young girl tied up with rope. (PSR ¶15). 100 photos were involved in the instant offense. (PSR ¶16).

IV. GUIDELINES CALCULATION

The United States adopts the offense level computations, the criminal history score, and the resulting Sentencing Guidelines range set forth in the Presentence Investigation Report in all respects.

V. CONTEXT FOR SENTENCING

As the Court is well aware, the Sentencing Guidelines are no longer binding in the wake of the Supreme Court's decision in United States v. Booker, 543 U.S. 220 (2005). As set forth in United States v. Mix, 457 F.3d 906, 911 (9th Cir. 2006), the district court must correctly analyze the Guidelines and then take into account the factors set forth in section 3553. Although the Guidelines are not binding, "it is fair to assume that the Guidelines, insofar as practicable, reflect a rough approximation of sentences that might achieve section 3553(a)'s objectives." United States v. Rita, 127 S. Ct. 2456, 2464-65 (2007). Those factors include:

- (1) The nature and circumstances of the offense and the history and characteristics of the defendant;
- (2) The need for the sentence imposed –
 - (A) To reflect the seriousness of the offense, to promote respect for the law, and to provide just punishment for the offense,
 - (B) To afford adequate deterrence to criminal conduct,
 - (C) To protect the public from further crimes of the defendant, and
 - (D) to provide the defendant with needed educational or vocational training, medical care, or other correctional treatment in the most effective manner;
- (3) The kinds of sentences available;
- (4) The kinds of sentence and the sentencing range established for –
 - (A) The applicable category of offense committed by the applicable category of defendant as set forth in the Guidelines issued by the Sentencing Commission . . .
- (5) Any pertinent policy statement –
 - (A) Issued by the Sentencing Commission;
- (6) The need to avoid unwarranted sentence disparities among defendants with similar records who have been found guilty of similar conduct; and
- (7) The need to provide restitution to any victims of the offense.

1 18 U.S.C. 3553(a).

2 The statutory minimum term of imprisonment that the defendant faces is five years
3 imprisonment, and the maximum term of imprisonment is twenty years. The maximum term of 4 supervised release is "life," the maximum fine that can be imposed is $250,000. There is a 5 mandatory special assessment of $100 for each count. The United States agrees with the 6 Probation Office assessment that the applicable Guideline range is Adjusted Offense Level 31.
7 The United States also agrees that the defendant's Criminal History Category of I and the 8 applicable Guideline range is 108-135 months. Defendant agrees with this calculation but for the 9 inclusion of the 2 level enhancement for use of computer. Defendant's contention lacks 10 grounding in law or fact.

11 Section 3553(c) requires the district court "at the time of sentencing" to "state in open court
12 the reasons for its imposition of the particular sentence." Greater specificity is required for: (1) 13 sentences within a Guidelines range that exceeds 24 months – for which the court must state "the 14 reason for imposing a sentence at a particular point within the range" (18 U.S.C. § 3553(c)(1)); 15 and (2) sentences outside the Guidelines range – for which the court must state orally and in the 16 written judgment "the specific reason" for the imposition of the sentence (18 U.S.C. § 17 3553(c)(2)).

18 VI. GOVERNMENT'S RECOMMENDATION FOR LOW-END OF THE 19 GUIDELINES RANGE

20 The Court should sentence the defendant to a term of imprisonment of 108 months 21 followed by a term of supervised release of ten years with the conditions recommended by the 22 Probation Officer. The United States believes that this sentence would represent the seriousness
23 of the defendant's conduct. Sentencing the defendant to the low-end of the Guidelines
24 recognizes the victimization of the many children depicted in these images, defendant's
25 culpability in distributing these images to approximately ten other individuals, and defendant's 26 current efforts to minimize the criminality of his conduct.

27 A. Defendant's Current Efforts to Minimize His Culpability for the Crime and Failure to 28 Accept Responsibility for His Conduct

Defendant continues to assert he only engaged in his criminal conduct to research people on

1 the Internet who trafficked in child pornography. (PSR ¶20). He adds that he did not think his
2 activities were illegal. Id. Interestingly, he comments that he was drinking heavily at the time
3 when he came up with the idea to conduct this research, and that he did have a book title in mind.
4 He did not provide the title but assured probation that he was eager to earn a book deal with his 5 idea and was blinded by greed. (PSR ¶21).

6 Defendant's position, in minimizing his culpability, is precariously close to failing to accept 7 responsibility, which in the Plea Agreement, entitled him to a 3 point adjustment. Although 8 standing by the Plea Agreement, the United States suggests that this Court should consider the 9 defendant's failure to (1) fully accept responsibility for his actions and (2) acknowledge the 10 impact and seriousness of his conduct.

11 This man sent and received horrific images of small children being bound, gagged, and 12 brutally sexually abused. He engaged in this conduct with at least 10 other individuals. The 13 method in which he traded these images does not reveal any indication that he was engaging in a 14 journalistic enterprise. The images were sent and received without discussion. Defendant
15 willingly traded in this currency of suffering children, contributed to each child's cycle of abuse, 16 and facilitated the dissemination of their horrific record of sexual abuse. Once these images were 17 sent by defendant, he had no control over them any longer and could not undo the harm.
18 Moreover, in the context of his trading with Sexfair2005, he discusses his sexual attraction to 19 his own children's friends in his home. While this maybe fantasy, it is certainly inconsistent with 20 a journalistic enterprise. Finally, in his statement to his longtime friend, he says he engaged in 21 this behavior for approximately one year, knew it was wrong, but mentions nothing about doing 22 it for journalism. To all of this, defendant states he feels "chagrined about the instant offense and 23 wishes he had known more before getting involved in his research efforts." (PSR ¶21). The 24 defendant's argument should be regarded for what it is - a baseless, last-ditch effort to minimize 25 his culpability and salvage something of his reputation in the community.

26 Even if the defendant did not know that trading these images was illegal, at a minimum, the 27 defendant's conduct was amoral, universally unacceptable, and aberrant. It is preposterous to 28 believe that the defendant thought it was appropriate or acceptable to trade in images of

1 prepubescent children being molested by anal, vaginal, and oral penetration. Defendant acquired 2 images of children being molested for his own prurient and selfish interests, without regard to the 3 victimization of the children depicted. In sentencing this defendant, the Court should consider,
4 in accordance with the Section 3553 factors, the defendant's failure to acknowledge the 5 seriousness of the offense, impact on the victims, and respect for the law.

6 The government's recommended sentence is a reasonable and appropriate disposition of the 7 matter; falls with the applicable Guidelines range; and properly accounts for the defendant's 8 criminal conduct and the section 3553 factors.

9 B. Congress Has Repeatedly Stated That Penalties for the Offenses Committed by the 10 Defendant Should Be Harsh.

11 The defendant is in the general population of sexual offenders that have been deemed 12 worthy of significant federal punishments. The Court is aware of the relatively recent statutory 13 and sentencing guideline amendments that have strengthened the federal penalties for offenses 14 related to the sexual exploitation of minors. Approximately five years ago Congress enacted the 15 Prosecutorial Remedies and Other Tools to End the Exploitation of Children Today Act of 2003
16 (the PROTECT Act, Public Law 108-21) in large part to enhance the penalties for crimes
17 involving the sexual exploitation of children. As justification for higher sentences in child
18 exploitation offenses, Congress stated:

19 The Government has a compelling state interest in protecting children from those who 20 sexually exploit them, including both child molesters and child pornographers. "The 21 prevention of sexual exploitation and abuse of children constitutes a government objective of surpassing importance," New York v. Ferber 458 U.S. 747 (1982), and this interest extends to stamping out the vice of child pornography at all levels in the distribution chain. Osborne
v. Ohio, 495 U.S. 103, 110 (1990).

22 PROTECT Act, Pub. L. No. 108-066, 117 Stat. 650, Sec. 501, Findings (2003). In the case of 23 child exploitation prosecutions, the government has a compelling interest to protect children
24 from those who would exploit them. The defendant is the very type of offender that Congress 25 contemplated when it drafted and enacted the PROTECT Act. The federal child sexual 26 exploitation statutes and penalty provisions are designed to provide just punishment for the 27 offenses that the defendant has committed.

28 More recently, on July 27, 2006, Congress enacted the Adam Walsh Child Protection and

1 Safety Act of 2006, H.R. 4472. This new legislation created new offenses related to the sexual 2 exploitation of minors and increased punishments for some existing offenses. It is worth noting 3 the continued Congressional focus on enacting additional legislation to enhance the protection of 4 children from those who would use the Internet to exploit them.² The government provides this 5 context to suggest that the trend has been to do everything possible to increase punishment for 6 crimes like the offense for which the defendant now faces at sentencing. This reflects the 7 societal concern that crimes connected to the sexual exploitation of children are some of the most 8 heinous that can be committed.

9 In passing the PROTECT Act and the Adam Walsh Act, Congress undertook its duty to 10 protect the psychological, emotional, and physical development of the nation's children. As the 11 Supreme Court has stated, "A democratic society rests, for its continuance, upon the healthy, 12 well-rounded growth of young people into full maturity as citizens." Ferber, 458 U.S. at 757.

13 The Sixth Circuit has likewise held that using children to produce graphic sexual images is a 14 form of sexual abuse which can cause mental and/or physical harm to a child. United States v.
15 Champion, 248 F.2d 502, 506 (6th Cir. 2001). Further, the viewers of the images contribute to 16 the cycle of abuse and are in part responsible for the psychological and physical harm of the 17 children used to produce the images. United States v. Yeaple, 605 F. Supp. 85, 86 (Pa. D. 1985), 18 see also, Ferber, 458 U.S. at 759.

19 VII. GOVERNMENT'S POSITION REGARDING REMAND

20 Pursuant to the provisions of 18 U.S.C. § 3143(b), the United States respectfully moves the 21 Court for an order directing remand of the Defendant immediately after sentence.
22
24
25
26

27
28 ² The Court can also take notice that California's Proposition 83, which provides for lifetime global positioning system monitoring and restrictions on where registered sex offenders can reside, was approved by an overwhelming 70-30% majority of voters on November 7, 2006.

VIII. CONCLUSION

The United States respectfully contends that a sentence at the low-end of the advisory Guidelines range of 108-135 months is appropriate to achieve the goals of sentencing.

Respectfully submitted,
