The recent discovery of AI-generated photos posted on a pornographic website has had an unwanted and unwelcome impact on our Panhellenic Community and its members.

You are not alone if this happened to you. You've done nothing wrong. You didn't deserve this. We want you to feel empowered and have ownership over your path forward. We know that some of you are currently working with University Police. There may be other women impacted that have not self-identified. We want to be sure that all impacted students have the resources and support they need to move forward. Know that the university is here to support you and provide resources for you to engage with as you feel comfortable.

We know that the impact of this is broader than just the survivors. It may raise doubts about safety and privacy for women in general, and sorority women specifically. This event may trigger past trauma and you may find yourself supporting a sister who is struggling. For this reason, we are including you in our outreach to help mitigate that impact and provide connections.

Know that we care about each of you and are here to support your student success. We are providing a resource list and coordinating drop-in hours with the Women's Center in Greek Village, which you can participate in.

On-Campus Resources for Students

- Counseling Center: If you're feeling overwhelmed, our Counseling Center offers emotional support. Visit counseling.dasa.ncsu.edu to schedule an appointment.
- Absence Verification: If you need assistance regarding class attendance, please review the information about the absence verification process.
- Office of Student Life and Advocacy: If you need assistance connecting to resources, please contact student-life-advocacy@ncsu.edu.
- Student Legal Services: University Student Legal Services focuses on helping students resolve their legal problems with as little disruption to their educational endeavors as possible. Students currently registered at NC State University and who have paid their student fees are eligible for our services for the semester.
- The Office of Equal Opportunity (OEO): The OEO provides support, resources, and response regarding reports of discrimination, harassment, and retaliation based on protected status.
- University Police: If you want to file a report or discuss additional investigative options, please contact UPD Det. Cabezas (jocabeza@ncsu.edu) or call 919-515-3000.
- Women's Center: The NC State Women's Center has trained advocates who support survivors of interpersonal violence (domestic/dating violence, sexual assault, stalking, etc.) in understanding their options and navigating healing and recovery. They also provide tips for supporting survivors. Advocates can support any student impacted by interpersonal violence, including secondary survivors. Secondary survivors may include individuals with a prior history of interpersonal violence—for whom it's natural for emotions to arise even if they were not directly affected in this particular situation. They have access to support at the Women's Center as well.

- CARES Referral: The program works closely with campus resources to provide early intervention for students who may be struggling personally or whose behavior has led others to be concerned for their well-being. Case managers meet with students and provide access to resources while following up with them and monitoring their progress

Drop-in support with the Women's Center and Counseling Center will be held in the GV Townhomes Multipurpose Room three days this week, along with virtual drop-in counseling. The Women's Center also offers in-person drop-in counseling sessions every Thursday from 1pm-2:30pm. You can reach out to either office directly for individual support.

- In-person on Tuesday, Oct. 29: 1 - 3 p.m.
- Virtually on Tuesday, Oct. 29: 1- 3 p.m.
- In-person on Wednesday, Oct. 30: 12 - 2 p.m.
- In-person Thursday, Oct. 31: 12 - 2 p.m.
- Virtually on Tuesday, Nov. 5: 1 - 3 p.m.

We know that our words will never heal or make right the wrong that was done. But we are so sorry that so many are hurting right now. If there are additional things we can do, please reach out and we can help you get connected. The road to recovery may be long. Lean in. Ask for help if and when you need it. We are all here for you.
