"The Harris County District Attorney's Office is committed to provide or arrange for services to meet the material, emotional, and information needs experienced by victims and witnesses, thereby allowing for faster and more complete recovery from the effects of crime"

WEBSITE: HARRIS COUNTY DISTRICT ATTORNEY DEVON ANDERSON

Four months after revelations that criminal investigations of two-dozen Houston homicides were mishandled, ignored, or outright falsified, the Harris County District Attorney has never sent a letter to a single victim's family explaining why no one is being prosecuted or why her office could not conduct the investigation. The District Attorney has conducted no known internal investigation into the actions of employees of her office in their reporting of suspicious conduct or whether conflicts of interest jeopardized the integrity of prosecutions. E-mails obtained during our investigation raise significant questions that should be addressed publicly.

On April 4th, 2014 Houston Police Chief Charles Mclelland publicly detailed a damning Internal Affairs report involving several members of the Houston Police Homicide Division. The Internal Affairs Division of the Houston Police Department specifically accused HPD Seargent Ryan Chandler of criminal conduct.

Chief Mclelland sought criminal prosecution of Chandler, but at his news conference, Mclelland stated the Harris County District Attorney's Office had reviewed the facts and declined any criminal charges against Chandler.

Within hours, an internal e-mail from Anderson's office notified the Houston Police hierarchy Mclelland was wrong.

"The Harris County District Attorney's Office played no role in deciding whether charges would or would not be filed against Sgt. Ryan Chandler."

In fact, using a still secret process, Devon Anderson had sought to transfer responsibility for the investigation to a prosecutor in the office of the Montgomery County District Attorney Brett Ligon. That prosecutor declined to file any criminal charges, although the exchanges between the Houston Police Department and the Office of the Harris County District Attorney raise legitimate questions about communication.

This report will delve into the "conflict of interest" at the heart of this case and the troubling questions the Harris County District Attorney has failed to answer. Published reports in recent months claim employees of the Harris County District Attorney's Office had concerns about Ryan Chandler's conduct at least two years ago, including his apparent refusal to testify in some criminal cases.

On May 8, 2013, the mother of a homicide victim came to the Harris County District Attorney's Office for answers about the status of her son's murder. E-mails show Ryan Chandler was the "only one who knew the status of the case". It is one of the cases Chandler is now accused of "dropping".

QUESTION: What action did prosecutors take to report this incident to supervisors?

It is interesting to note the very first internal e-mail detailing the alleged timeline of the events leading to the IAD investigation is dated April 29, 2014, nearly a year after that May 2013 incident and more than three weeks after the McLelland press conference.

8-16-2013 Two weeks after Chandler is transferred out of the homicide division the Victim Service Unit reports a family member of a victim had called and said the "DA's office told her they did not have the HPD case file" on a murder case.

8-30-13 The DA's office called and inquired about the location of a grand jury referral case that had been assigned to Chandler. It is unclear if this is the case discussed in the May 2013 e-mails.

On 10-13-2013, more than a month after a Supervisor in the Houston Police Department found numerous case files that were incomplete or didn't exist, the Internal Affairs Investigation began.

We do not know from our review of e-mails the exact date District Attorney Devon Anderson personally became aware of the Chandler problem, but the District Attorney should be required to detail this information publicly, along with the steps she took to protect victims and defendants associated with Chandler's work.

In response to our request for Chandler e-mails, Anderson's office provided this December 11, 2013 e-mail to Belinda Hill, the first Assistant District Attorney.

"4 HPD investigators... will meet with us on our matter Friday at 10."

In his ongoing efforts to conceal the details of the "investigation" of the Chandler matter, the Montgomery County District Attorney Brett Ligon provided us key details.

"On January 7, 2014 a sealed motion was filed in a Harris County District Court, in which the Harris County district attorney recused herself from a pending grand jury investigation and requested appointment of a district attorney pro tem....The order of appointment was placed under seal because it relates to a confidential grand jury proceeding and disclosure would reveal the substance of a pending grand jury investigation."

Now that the public is aware of the sealed request, District Attorney Anderson should immediately unseal all documents related, including the name of the Judge that issued the order so the public can evaluate the detailed disclosure of the potential conflict that precipitated the request.

There is no evidence, and certainly no public disclosure, of any internal investigation conducted by or directed by Devon Anderson into the conduct of her office in dealings with Chandler, and whether early discovery and disclosure of his problems were impacted by his relationship with Inger Hampton, the Assistant District Attorney in charge of Conviction Review.

Hampton is the gatekeeper for ensuring the integrity of prosecutions in Harris County. E-mails confirm Hampton and Chandler worked on prosecutions together, long after they were romantically involved. The two were married in June of 2014.

The potential for conflict is clear. Hampton is an officer of the court. Chandler is a witness. It should be improper for a prosecutor to remain involved in any case in which they have a relationship with any witness, especially the witness whose testimony is used to base search warrants and laboratory reports.

Both Chandler and Hampton were supporters of Mike Anderson. They were photographed together at his 2012 victory party. Chandler provided a $550 dollar donation to the Anderson campaign. Devon Anderson was appointed to fill her late husband's term.

In 2012, June e-mail traffic details Hampton and Chandler working together on the Craig Crooks case. On July 27th, 2012 prosecutor Tara George e-mails Hampton in search of the same records from Chandler.

In November 19, 2012, Hampton is asking Chandler for a DVD on another case. A week later she is asking for the same evidence.

On February 18, 2013, Hampton is asking Chandler for copies of reports on at least five criminal cases. "If this is too much to ask, just let me know. Really." The e-mail includes a smiley face.

By June 2013, Hampton and Chandler are engaged, yet the pair is still working together on prosecutions. In an e-mail about a 2009 offense where Chandler is a witness, Hampton concludes her e-mail...
"Love you"

The e-mails also contain a June 2013 invitation for a surprise birthday party for Hampton sent to the current head of the District Attorney Public Integrity section from Ryan Chandler.

By the fall of 2013, Ryan Chandler was under Internal investigation by the Houston Police Department. By January 7, 2014, Anderson had already sought to transfer jurisdiction of any criminal investigation of Chandler out of her office.

Yet e-mails show that on February 18, 2014, Hampton accessed a District Attorney Office computer to run a search on all criminal cases filed by Ryan Chandler. She forwarded the information to Chandler at 9:31 am.

Even in May of this year, the Chief of the Civil Rights Division of the District Attorney's office, Julian Ramirez, was questioning details of an aggravated assault case involving a defendant named Michael Thompson. The DIMS documents reveal the case was investigated by Chandler and Keith Lovelace, who is another HPD officer implicated in the homicide scandal.

The District Attorney should be challenged to detail what steps, if any, she has taken to investigate Hampton's conduct, including her knowledge of previous complaints from other District Attorneys office personnel about Chandler.

While the District Attorney may be able to justify keeping the Chandler investigation a secret from the public in January 2014, e-mail show she failed to warn even her own prosecutors of potential corruption by a police department witness. This failure potentially jeopardized ongoing criminal prosecutions, put prosecutor's credibility with the court at risk, and potentially violated the rights of victims and defendants.

On Friday February 7, 2014, Prosecutor Maritza Antu, the Chief of the 178th District Court, was missing key evidence to prepare for a deposition of an eyewitness in the Perry/Price capital murder case. She attempted to find Ryan Chandler but realized his cell phone number had changed.

It was four months after the HPD Internal Affairs Investigation had begun, and at least one month since Anderson had sought a pro tem prosecutor for the Chandler criminal probe, yet Antu was clearly unaware.

E-mails show Antu didn't connect the dots on her own until two months later. April 11th, 2014. By then, another prosecutor Natalie Tise acknowledged " we may need to provide Brady information. I think maybe the office maybe coming up with something standardized soon".

Prosecutors are required to notify defendants and their lawyers about information that could affect the credibility of testifying law enforcement officers.

Published reports allege at least some members of the District Attorney's office were concerned about Chandler's credibility years before 2014, and we know a grand jury investigation was beginning in January 2014, so we examined the lapse in this critical notification.

Despite the criminal investigation that began on or before January 7, 2014, it wasn't until April 10th, 2014 that the District Attorney's General Counsel sought a complete list of 82 criminal cases filed by Ryan Chandler.

Even the Houston Police Department had raised Brady concerns within a few days of Chief McClelland's public announcement on April 4th.

Yet on April 22nd, 2014 the Harris County District Attorney's office was actually asking the Houston Police Department

"to provide any detail in this regard to help us ensure that we all meet our obligations under Brady as it relates to the IAD investigation"

That is the best evidence the Harris County District Attorney's office had not monitored the ongoing internal investigation to fulfill their duty to victims and defendants. E-mail shows the District Attorney's office didn't even have a copy of witness statements until late April of 2014.

On May 12th, 2014, Dolcefino Consulting filed a request under the Texas Public Information Act for letters to victims and Brady letters to defendants and their legal counsel on behalf of the Ogg campaign. Documents released by the District Attorney's office show none of the letters were written until after the demand for public disclosure filed by Dolcefino Consulting.

The Harris County District Attorney's office has not released e-mail communication between Inger Hampton and Chandler they deem "personal". That should immediately happen. In addition, Anderson should unseal any documents detailing her request for a prosecutor pro-tem, and call on Montgomery County District Attorney Ligon to release documents detailing the "investigation by his office".

Anderson should also be required to detail for the public what steps she has taken to investigate the actions of Hampton and to internally investigate other personal relationships between prosecutors and testifying police witnesses that give rise to conflicts of interest and report the results to the public.

Most importantly, the District Attorney should have to explain her failure to notify victims, her lapse in notifying defendants, and her failure to warn her own prosecutors.

Please see below:

At a news conference this afternoon, Chief Charles McClelland, Jr. stated "We certainly communicated all of our investigated findings to the Harris County District Attorney's Office.

And turned over all of the evidence we uncovered or discovered on Sgt. Chandler and they have declined to accept any charges at this time."

In actuality, Montgomery County District Attorney's Office reviewed the evidence and declined charges. The Harris County District Attorney's Office played no role in deciding whether charges would or would not be filed against Sgt. Ryan Chandler.

Ok, I just got off the phone with Officer Carr. The case is a homicide, the woman at the window is probably the deceased's mother. Officer Carr has explained what is going on many times to the mom, but she is clearly not getting it. Here is what is going on:

The case is being referred to the Grand Jury, charges have not been accepted. The Officer who knows what is going on at this stage is officer Ryan Chandler who can be reached at 713-308-3631. Officer Chandler is off today, but they can call and leave a message. He is the only one who knows the status of the case.

Re: Request for attorney general's opinion concerning information from the district attorney's present and former Houston Police Department

Greetings:

This office received from Ms. Kim Ogg on May 14, 2014 information:

1. "all documents, including any e-mail or phone records since June 1, 2013, between any employee of the [District Attorney's Office] and the [Montgomery County District Attorney's Office] relating to Sgt. Bryan Chandler and or the mishandling of the [Montgomery County District Attorney's Office] Police Homicide Division Criminal Case";
2. "documents detailing any correspondence between the [Montgomery County District Attorney's Office] and any victim or witness in cases involved in the homicide division investigations of the [Montgomery County District Attorney's Office] Devon Anderson's office";
3. "all records relating to any and all criminal investigations of Sgt. Bryan Chandler, and any other Houston Police Department officers in 2013."

A copy of that request is attached as appendix A. Monday, May 27, 2014 is a Montgomery County holiday, so this request for an opinion is due before May 29, 2014. See section 552.301(d), Texas Government Code.

Office of the Attorney General

May 27, 2014

Upon receiving this request for information, the district attorney has identified and documented the district attorney's investigations of alleged or suspected activity on the part of present or former officers of the Houston Police Department during the time specified in the request. Neither of the two investigations resulted in conviction for or deferred adjudication of guilt of a criminal offense. Therefore, the attorney general confirms that the district attorney need not disclose the contents of the files pursuant to section 552.108(a)(2) & (b)(2) of the Texas Government

Subsection 552.108(a)(2) of the Government Code provides that information in the possession of a prosecutor that deals with the investigation and prosecution of crime is exempt from mandatory disclosure under the Act if it deals with an investigation and prosecution in relation to an investigation that did not result in conviction or deferred adjudication. Subsection 552.108(b)(2) similarly provides that internal records and notations of law enforcement agencies and prosecutors maintained for internal use in matters relating to law enforcement and prosecution are exempt from mandatory disclosure under the Act if they relate to law enforcement "only in relation to an investigation that did not result in conviction or deferred adjudication."

With regard to the first of the two files containing information which are described in the descriptions set out in the request, on January 7, 2014, a sealed motion was filed in Harris County district court, in which the Harris County district attorney recused himself from a pending grand jury investigation and requested appointment of a district attorney pro tem. The motion was granted and Montgomery County assistant district attorney Jeff Hohl was appointed to serve as district attorney pro tem. The order of appointment was placed under seal because it "relates to a confidential grand jury proceeding and disclosure would reveal the substance of a pending grand jury investigation." The court directed that it "may not be publicly disclosed without the express permission of the Court." The undersigned counsel for the district attorney is unaware of any subsequent granting of permission for disclosure of the matter investigated.

Assistant district attorney Jeff Hohl conducted an investigation pursuant to that order. At the conclusion of his investigation, he determined that no further action was warranted. The investigation was closed, and no formal charges were initiated. Copies of the order of appointment and the entire contents of Hohl's file, along with any e-mail and other mail communications regarding the investigation, are enclosed as appendix B for your review.

Office of the Attorney General

The second file meeting one of the descriptions set out in the request for information pertained to an allegation that a Houston Police Department officer behaved improperly in connection with the traffic stop and subsequent arrest of a third party by a Montgomery County peace officer. The matter was referred to the Public Integrity Unit of the district attorney's office, where it was reviewed by assistant district attorney Jeff Hohl. At the conclusion of that review, Hohl found that no further action was warranted, and he closed the investigation without initiating any formal charges. Copies of the contents of Hohl's file for that investigation are enclosed as appendix C for your review.

Because these two criminal investigations are concluded and did not result in any conviction or deferred adjudication, the records of prosecutors and law enforcement agencies compiled in connection with that investigation are not subject to mandatory disclosure under section 552.108 of the Public Information Act.

Please feel free to contact me if any additional information may be provided in connection with this request for an opinion.

Sincerely,

BILL DELMORE
Chief, Legal Services Bureau

Harris County DA, HPD Homicide scandal widens

APRIL 22, 2014 BY DON HOOPER

Don Hooper

Chronicle Reporter James Pinkerton continues to kill it. His latest Easter Sunday article includes information from the recently obtained disciplinary records for the officers fired and disciplined in the HPD homicide unit scandal. The revelations were countless and shocking. Let me try and summarize the facts.

- The disciplinary records reveal that the investigation involving (former) HPD Homicide Detective Ryan Chandler began because members of the Harris County DA's office, presumably prosecutors, complained that Chandler refused to testify about his cases at trial. Stunning.

- HPD Homicide and members of the District Attorney's office knew about Chandler's problems and, possibly, the missing files, when Pat Lykos was the Harris County District Attorney.
- HPD Chief Charles McClelland called Chandler a "liar" with "a severe lack of sound judgment." Chandler failed to adequately investigate 21 cases, including 15 deaths, misplaced files and evidence, and falsified police reports.
- The disciplinary records state that Chandler made false entries into offense reports.
- In a case where a convenience store clerk was murdered, HPD developed the suspect in 2007 and failed to investigate the case until May 2010.
- After a 2005 murder, two eyewitnesses quickly identified a suspect. Even though a suspect was identified, Council Member Ed Gonzalez's only effort to find the suspect was to contact the suspect's wife via the telephone. Years later, the suspect was deported to Honduras without prosecution on the homicide case and the victim's family is left without justice.
- The Harris County District Attorney's office forwarded the case to Montgomery County District Attorney, Brett Ligon, a former attorney for the Houston Police Officers' Union (HPOU). Chandler is now represented by an attorney for the HPOU.
- Ligon concluded that no criminal wrongdoing occurred without an impartial grand jury investigation.

If the HPD Homicide Division was having problems, shouldn't the sitting Harris County District Attorney be told immediately about these issues? We know that, at a minimum, the problems with Chandler began to come to light when Pat Lykos was the District Attorney. Shouldn't someone have told the sitting district attorney about a homicide detective's refusal to testify?

Following the publication of Pinkerton's story, I spoke with Lykos and Jim Leitner, her First Assistant. Neither Lykos nor Leitner knew anything about an investigation into Chandler or any other homicide detective. This is stunning because the article by Pinkerton states that, in 2012, members of the District Attorney's office complained about Chandler to the Houston Police Department.

The revelation of Chandler's refusal to testify presents more questions than answers.

- Who first discovered Ryan Chandler's refusal to testify?
- Did they tell anyone?
- Did they take any action?
- Who knew about Ryan Chandler's refusal to testify?
- When did they know?
- When did HPD Homicide learn about Ryan Chandler's refusal to testify?
- Did they tell anyone?
- Did they take any action?
- Were individuals convicted without Chandler's testimony? If so, who are these defendants?
- Has anyone identified these cases to the defense bar?
- Did the Anderson administration know about Chandler's refusal to testify in homicide cases when they accepted his $550 campaign donation?
- Was Allen Blakemore, the Anderson (and Ligon) administration's campaign consultant, aware of the HPD issues?

What about the missing files?

- When did HPD learn that homicide files were missing from the division?
- Did they tell anyone?
- Did they take any action?
- When did the Harris County District Attorney's office learn that homicide files were missing from the division?
- Who from the Harris County District Attorney's office knew that homicide files were missing from the division?
- When did they know it?
- Did they tell anyone?
- Did they take any action?
- Has anyone identified these cases to the defense bar?

Clearly, Chandler was very excited about the Anderson administration. Not only did he donate $550 to the campaign, he attended the victory party at a midtown restaurant. Here he is, wearing an Anderson sticker, with his girlfriend.

Ryan Chandler & ADA
Inger Hampton at Mike
Anderson victory party

How could prosecutors at the Harris County District Attorney's office know about Chandler's refusal to testify without telling Lykos or Leitner? Were they friends with Chandler's girlfriend, a Chief felony prosecutor and leader of the conviction integrity unit? Were they waiting for the Anderson administration to sweep this under the rug? Did they ever plan to tell the defense bar about these problems? Will there ever be any Brady disclosures?

There needs to be an impartial investigation by the Washington based Department of Justice Public Integrity Unit or the Texas Rangers. One of the Democratic Judges needs to appoint a Special Prosecutor. This is public corruption at its worse involving law enforcement and members of the Harris County District Attorney's office.

Oh, and stay tuned! I promise you there is much more to this story – follow James Pinkerton and Jeremy Rogalski for further developments.

Ryan,

I'm writing because we are finally ready to complete the deposition of the eyewitness in this case. I have now taken over the case. I have looked everywhere and cannot find a copy of the walk-thru with the complainant and the Arabic officer. I really, really need it on Monday morning. I'm sorry for the late email and understand if you can't get it to me. I thought I could find it in my boxes and I was wrong. I tried calling your cell but it appears you've changed your number. Please, please let me know if you can/can't help. Either way. Thanks.

Here we go again. Can you develop a spread sheet with all cases filed by Ryan Chandler with HPD like you've done in the past? We may need to send out a notice letter to each defendant in the near future. Also, can you make the cause number interactive like you did on another project so we can pull up the case by simply clicking on the cause number?

This is in addition to the list of 24 cases I sent you yesterday.

Thanks.

Dick

Re: Cause No. 1410711; State of Texas v. Dexter Taylor; In the 338th District Court of Harris County, Texas.

Dear Mr. Bourque,

Please be advised that a Houston Police Department Internal Affairs Investigation concluded that former Sgt. Ryan Chandler violated certain HPD policies.

Specifically, the investigation found that Chandler:

- falsified an offense report by documenting a conversation with an Assistant District Attorney who advised him to refer the case to a grand jury for review while never forwarding the case to the District Attorney's office;
- was untruthful during the IAD investigation by providing a false explanation for not seeking charges against a complainant who admitted to making a false report;
- was untruthful and misleading during the IAD investigation by claiming that his heavy case load was the cause of his deficiencies;
- was untruthful and misleading during the IAD investigation by filing a supplemental report that would leave one to believe an act was done on the date of the supplement when in fact it was not done until three years later; and
- was untruthful by omission when he did not fully provide information requested by the IAD investigator.

As a result of these violations, Chandler was indefinitely suspended. A more detailed explanation of the facts underlying his firing can be found in the April 4, 2014 press conference of Houston Police Department Chief Charles A. McClelland, Jr. During the press conference Chief McClelland stated that Chandler was "lazy" and was "a liar."

- was untruthful by omission when he did not fully provide information requested by the IAD investigator.

Specifically, the investigation found that Chandler:

- falsified an offense report by documenting a conversation with an Assistant District Attorney who advised him to refer the case to a grand jury for review while never forwarding the case to the District Attorney's office;
- was untruthful during the IAD investigation by providing a false explanation for not seeking charges against a complainant who admitted to making a false report;
- was untruthful and misleading during the IAD investigation by claiming that his heavy case load was the cause of his deficiencies;
- was untruthful and misleading during the IAD investigation by filing a supplemental report that would leave one to believe an act was done on the date of the supplement when in fact it was not done until three years later; and
- was untruthful by omission when he did not fully provide information requested by the IAD investigator.

As a result of these violations, Chandler was indefinitely suspended. A more detailed explanation of the facts underlying his firing can be found in the April 4, 2014 press conference of Houston Police Department Chief Charles A. McClelland, Jr. During the press conference Chief McClelland stated that Chandler was "lazy" and was "a liar."
